

Anita Bušljeta Tonković was born in Gospić (Croatia) in 1984. She graduated sociology and pedagogy in 2007 in University of Zadar. Her workplace is at the Institute of Social Sciences Ivo Pilar, Regional Centre Gospić from 2008 where she works as (postdoctoral) research assistant (permanent resident in Croatia). Scientific interests of Anita Bušljeta Tonković are connected to the rural sociology, sociology of development and social ecology.

Anita Bušljeta Tonković has participated in the research project devoted to the social reconstruction in Croatian rural areas and also participated in Central European University summer school program in 2011 – Sustainable Human Development: from International Framework to Regional Policies.

Anita Bušljeta Tonković achieved her PhD degree in January 2014 (doctoral thesis: Sustainable Development Possibilities of Middle Lika's Area) in University of Zagreb, Faculty of humanities and social sciences.

Anita Bušljeta Tonković is member of Croatian Sociological Association and European Society for Rural Sociology.

The complete bibliography of Dr. Anita Bušljeta Tonković can be accessed at <http://bib.irb.hr/>.