

COST action IS1205 Summer School

“Confronting Collective Historical Memory and Emotion”

Split, Croatia – 7-12 September 2015

In this unique summer school for Ph. D. level students, experts in social psychology and history will come together to teach interactive workshops about three aspects of how history is preserved, evaluated, altered and forgotten in collective memory.

Teaching groups:

Historical Memory Transmitted Through Education

Luigi Cajani and Giovanna Leone

(Sapienza University of Rome)

Historical Memory In Commemorative Acts & Sites

Michał Bilewicz (University of Warsaw) and Chantal

Kesteloot (Centre for Historical Research and Documentation on War and Contemporary Society)

Acts of Reconciliation: Reshaping or Reinforcing Historical Memory?

Sabina Čehajić-Clancy (University of Sarajevo) and

Roger Giner-Sorolla (University of Kent)

The summer school is open to all registered Ph. D. students and post-doc researchers, but priority will be given to students supervised by members of the COST Action IS1205, and these students will be subsidized by the Action while others will have to pay for travel and accommodation at a reasonable price; more information will be posted shortly on the Action's website:

<http://costis1205.wix.com/home>

Applications should be made by 12 June 2015 by completing this online form: <https://www.inscription-facile.com/form/DGuYA2P8DwBhVB6KSaY6> . Decisions will be made and applicants notified by 20 June 2015.